

ch initial

chip	ch i p
chop	ch o p
chime	ch i me
cheep	ch ee p
chew	ch ew
chess	ch e ss
cheese	ch ee se
check	ch e ck
chirp	ch ir p
chain	ch ai n
child	ch i l d
chair	ch ai r
chalk	ch a lk
chart	ch ar t
chicken	ch i • ck e n
chili	ch i l • i
checkbook	ch e ck • b oo k chisel	ch i • s el
chopsticks	ch o p • s t i ck s church	ch ur ch

one tortilla chip chop wood
bells will chime
cheep loudly
to chew
a game of chess cheddar cheese
a check
bird will chirp
chain links
the child
across the chair
write with chalk
on a chart
the white chicken
bowl of chili
write in your checkbook a steel chisel
with chopsticks
the white church

One tortilla chip has fallen out of the bag.
A sharp axe is used to chop wood.
The mission bells will chime on the hour.
The little bird will sit on the wall and cheep loudly until I feed it.
Horses have big jaws to chew the tough grass.
Someone is playing a game of chess on this board.
Cheddar cheese looks like an orange brick.
There is a check next to one of the things on the list.
The green bird will chirp when you come into the room.
Rusty chain links could be unsafe.
The child is playing happily in the toy store.
Sunlight is streaming across the chair by the window.
When you write with chalk, you can erase your mistakes.
You can record your objectives on a chart.
The white chicken is going around the fence.
A big bowl of chili and crackers fills me up.
Remember to take a pen, if you want to write in your checkbook.
Always wear goggles when you use a steel chisel.
If you practice, you can eat noodles with chopsticks.
Walk up the steps to get into the white church.

ch medial

inches
peaches
bunches
benches
catcher
kitchen
matches
hatchet picture
crutches
ketchup
pitcher
bleachers
stitches statue
culture
armchair
stretching
touches
spatula

i n • ch e s
p ea • ch e s
b u n • ch e s
b e n • ch e s
c a • tch er
k i • tch e n
m a • tch e s
h a • tch e t
p i c • tu re
c r u • tch e s
k e • tch u p
p i • tch er
b l ea • ch er s
s t i • tch e s
s t a • t ue
c u l • tu re ar m • ch ai r
s t r e • tch i ng
t ou • ch e s
s p a • t u • l a

the inches
sliced peaches
several bunches
two benches
the catcher
in the kitchen with matches
sharp hatchet
a picture
pair of crutches
lots of ketchup
the pitcher
in the bleachers
tiny stitches
the statue Amish culture
the gray armchair
stretching down
touches the other rubber spatula

The measuring tape has numbers to mark the inches.
Sometimes I eat sliced peaches in a bowl.
There are several bunches of onions on the table.
The two benches are in the bushes.
The catcher is ready to catch the ball.
We cook our meals in the kitchen.
Never play with matches.
The sharp hatchet is stuck in the block of wood.
Hanging on the wall is a picture of a strange looking hand.
You would need a pair of crutches if you broke your leg.
Fries taste best with lots of ketchup.
The pitcher on the mound is about to throw the ball.
No one is sitting in the bleachers today.
The pattern in the sweater is made of tiny stitches.
This statue was carved in granite.
In the Amish culture, a horse and wagon transports grain.
The gray armchair is next to a table with some books on it.
The squirrel is stretching down from the railing.
One young calf touches the other calf gently with its nose.
The rubber spatula is used to mix the sticky pie filling.

each	ea ch
inch	i n ch
beach	b ea ch
peach	p ea ch
couch	c ou ch
coach	c oa ch
match	m a tch
arch	ar ch
latch	l a tch
watch	w a tch
lunch	l u n ch
bench	b e n ch
switch	s w i tch
branch	b r a n ch
wrench	wr e n ch
sketch	s k e tch
starch	s t ar ch
thatch	th a tch
ostrich	o s • t r i ch
sandwich	s a n d • w i ch

each of these each inch sandy beach
the ripe juicy peach
the overstuffed couch
the team's coach
the match
the arch
the latch
gold watch for lunch
green bench
this switch
on the branch
a wrench
a sketch
use starch
thatch roof
an ostrich
a thick sandwich

Each of these boards has been cut at an angle.
The measuring tape has a line and a number to mark each inch.
Waves are rolling onto the long sandy beach.
The ripe juicy peach is in a green bowl.
The overstuffed couch is a good place to relax and read a book.
The team's coach is talking to the umpires.
The end of the match is very hot when it is lit.
The arch is over the entrance to the old city.
Once the latch is closed, papers will not fall out of the briefcase.
The gold watch was left in the cup with the spare change.
Sometimes for lunch, I have brussels sprouts dipped in ketchup.
The green bench looks like a good place to rest.
This switch was used to turn the machine on.
There is a blue and white bird perched on the branch.
A wrench can be used to tighten bolts.
This looks like a sketch of a bird, but it has three legs.
Use starch when you iron, to be sure there are no wrinkles.
This cooking hut has a thatch roof.
An ostrich is a large bird with very strong and powerful legs.
Your lunch has a thick sandwich with extra lettuce.